Groups offer a safe space to connect with others addressing similar concerns. Group members share ideas that have worked for them, introducing approaches that you may not have tried. You can also ask questions and share your concerns and ideas. People attending group often find that it's helpful to know that they have valuable insights to share with others.

- Connect to others facing similar issues.
- See how others handle similar problems.
- Learn and practice new skills in a safe environment.
- Get multiple perspectives.
- Share your unique perspective.
- Improve self-awareness and social skills.
- Enhance acceptance of yourself and others.
- Improve self-esteem.

How do you talk to yourself all day?

Do these sound familiar:

- What if...?
- What are they thinking?
- What does this mean about me?
- Am I good enough?
- Am I doing enough?
- Am I behind?
How’s your relationship with yourself going?

Self-Compassion: Treating yourself with kindness, support, and encouragement.

3 components:

- Mindfulness of the pain you’re feeling.
- Recognize that this is part of our shared human experience.
- Self-kindness and heartfelt wish for all of us to feel peace and contentment.
Compassionate self-talk sounds like:

• “This hurts.” or “This is a moment of suffering.”
• “I am not alone. We all struggle in life.”
• “I can choose to be kind to myself.”
• “I’m learning to accept myself as I am.”
• “I believe I am strong.”
• “I can forgive myself.”
The old conversation:
• Comparison.
• Perfectionism.
• Imposter syndrome.
• What you want to avoid or stop experiencing.

The new conversation:
• Optimism.
• Affirmation.
• Speaking to yourself as you would speak to a dear friend.
• What you enjoy, want to create, and are excited about.
• Give attention to life outside of work.
Work/Life Balance

You’ll never get everything lined up just so and then keep it that way. Focus instead on finding a sustainable approach. Meaning…

• Know what is most important to you.

• Know what you need for your own health and happiness.

• Know what fills you up.

• Know your personal burnout warning signs.

• Make sustainability your intention rather than productivity.
Meaning

• Feeling connected to something bigger in the world.
• Sense of worth and purpose in your actions.
• Acting with intention.
• Finding meaning during both the good and bad times.

Questions to ask yourself to bring the meaning back:
• Why am I here?
• Do my actions feel meaningful?
• Do I say yes to the meaningful things in my life?
• What do I hope to get out of this action or decision? And is that meaningful to me?
Accomplishment

Here, we’re talking about your big picture personal sense of accomplishment.

Feeling accomplished self-assessment. Do you...

• Recognize your accomplishments?
• Minimize your accomplishments?
• Take the time to celebrate your accomplishments – big and small?
• Pursue goals that are just for you?
Stress Warning Signals

Physical
- headache, low energy, muscular tension, insomnia, rapid heartbeat, upset stomach

Behavioral
- incomplete tasks, procrastination, changes in appetite, increased use of drugs/alcohol, critical of others, bossiness, nervous behavior, displacement, avoiding responsibilities

Emotional
- overwhelmed, crying, easily upset, low self-esteem, difficulty relaxing, lonely, depressed, avoiding others

Cognitive
- constant worrying, racing thoughts, lack of focus, indecisiveness, forgetfulness, disorganization, pessimism

Relational
- resentment, lashing out, isolation

Spiritual
- loss of meaning, apathy
